Map Makers Told to Omit Military Depots, Plants

WASHINGTON — Map makers, editors and manufacturers were asked by the office of censorship to make certain that new maps and charts omit reference to military depots and production plants.

"No maps should be published or distributed showing military depots or production plants," the office of censorship said.

Existing maps are not affected by the request. Names and locations of military camps, posts and stations may be shown, if there is no indication of their size or strength.

Byrd Price, director of the office of censorship, said that it was permissible to publish maps showing the general location of war or large-scale zones of action, because they do not furnish any information to the enemy.

Paradise Lodge, the summer home for many thousands of tourists, has been taken over by the army and is now used for the housing and feeding of the specialized troops.

The newly created combat force will do more than fight in the snow; as mountain troops, they will put away their skis when the snow melts and concentrate on mountain climbing and moving pack artillery through mountain roads.

In creating the new combat force officials had to pioneer the way.

The manual of arms was revised to include handling of skis and poles. For the last movement of troops and supplies over the snow, the army has a motor toboggan—a sled with an endless tread running at high speed.

During a preliminary course, the mountain troops are taught to ski alone and in formation with a load on their backs including a 50-pound pack, high-powered rifle and other equipment. He carries his own tent, food, and a small gas stove. He also has with him a change of clothing and plenty of food.

Hunting season opens tomorrow.

Introduce Meatless Banquet for Defense

LAFAYETTE, IND.—Now, for wartime, the "meatless banquet" The Purdue university chapter of Alpha Zeta, national agricultural honorary fraternity, had a dinner.

But there wasn't any food on the table. Money that would have been spent on that will be given to the Red Cross or used to buy defense bonds.

Over the Top by New Year's Is the Plea of Secretary Morgenthau

November 15, 1942

As of today twenty-one million American workers are investing eight per cent of their salary—every pay day—in United States War Savings Bonds. This is a very remarkable tribute to our armed forces who are fighting this war. But this job is only two-thirds accomplished.

There are nine million additional American workers who are not investing in War Bonds every pay day.

This appeal is directed to two groups of Americans:

First—the twenty-one million people who are investing eight per cent of their wages. We ask them to increase their investment to ten per cent or more.

Second—the other nine million whom we ask to join the Payroll Savings Plan and to invest ten per cent or more of their earnings.

It is our earnest hope here at the Treasury Department that by New Year's Day thirty million Americans will be investing ten per cent or more of their wages in War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Henry Morgenthau Jr.

Secretary of the Treasury

WHY PICK DARLAN? It is to be regretted that the glorious campaign in North Africa led to the selection of the selection of Admiral Darlan as head of the freed French there. There are many able Frenchmen without the Quaiing background of Darlan. It is to be hoped that now that the selection of Darlan did not produce the delivery of the Toulon fleet to the Allies or will be made.
